Sgt. Mathew Locke annual football clash at Bellingen 3.00 pm Sat 22nd March

The match honours the memory and sacrifice of Bellingen's Matthew Locke, who joined the Army at the age of 17 and deployed to Timor, Iraq and Afghanistan. Locke was awarded the Medal for Gallantry in displaying courage of the highest order during action in hazardous circumstances. He was fatally wounded by Taliban insurgents in 2007 while serving with the Special Air Service Regiment in Uruzgan Province, southern Afghanistan.

Money raised through the annual charity football event is used to advocate for veterans on the Mid North Coast as well as providing schools and education to disadvantaged children in remote Timor Leste.

This year's match-ups see the Australian Army Thunder take on the Sawtell Panthers at Bellingen Park, while the Bellingen Magpies face off against the Brisbane Jackals.

PADRE'S POST

REMEMBER:-

Surrender of Singapore – 17th February 1942

Bombing of Darwin – 19th February 1942

I purchased an inspiring book “Surviving the Sword” by Brian MacArthur.

When Japan walked out of the League of Nations in 1932 as a result of being accused of aggression in China, it gave up humanity for brutality. I was amazed when I was told that only two lines currently, in school history books in Japan for the school children, mention Japanese barbarism. Clearly Japan has never asked for forgiveness. They simply refer to the advance of the Japanese Empire. Brian MacArthur describes it this way:

“The implementation of the task of the Showa Restoration – the reign of Hirohito, which is to realise his Imperial Majesty’s desire for peace in the Far East, and to set Asia free, rest squarely on our shoulders.”

MacArthur goes on to explain that the Japanese troops were issued with an anti-West Manual which stated:

“When you encounter the enemy after landing regard yourself as an avenger come at last face to face with his father’s murderer. Here before you is a man whose death will lighten your heart of its burden of brooding anger. If you fail to destroy him utterly you can never rest at peace. And the first blow is the vital blow..... Westerners – being very superior people, very effeminate, and very cowardly – have an intense dislike of fighting in the rain or mist or at night .....by jungle is meant dense forest in which a large variety of trees and grasses and thorny plants are all closely entangled together.....this type of terrain is regarded by the weak-spirited westerners as impenetrable, and for this reason – in order to outmanoeuvre them – we must from time to time force our way through it....”

So much for Hirohito's desire for peace in the Far East and to set Asia free. What a lie!

However, using bicycles and forging through the impenetrable bush did put pressure on the British and Australian troops. Yamashita did manage to get through British lines by passing through the swamps which was considered impassable terrain. Small boats were used down the west coast to move behind British lines.

According to the Tokyo War Crimes Tribunal, Japan took 132,142 allied prisoners. More than 50,000 British and Australians were captured in Singapore alone - and 42,000 Dutch and 10,000 British in Java. Twenty five thousand Americans were captured in the Philippines. Of the 107,000 that passed through Changi on their way to prison details, 27% died from brutal treatment. Indeed of the 132,142 we can confidently say almost 36,000 were murdered. Twelve thousand of those deaths occurred on the building of the Burma/Thailand Railway. It is also estimated 100,000 natives - "coolies" also died on that project. MacArthur also notes:

"The Japanese Government made its position known in 1942 through its legislation in Bern. Japan was not bound by the Geneva Convention, it said, but would apply the convention as was possible - mutatis mutandis (with necessary changes) - to its prisoners, taking into consideration the customs of each nation and each race in respect of feeding and clothing. The result of that small phrase.....was that Japan flouted almost all the significant rules of the Geneva convention, which was why so many FEPOWs died. By Japanese standards, the men who were captured had shamed themselves; they were contemptible and expendable. Another crucial factor in Japan's treatment of prisoners was race. Japan was leading a war of the 'yellow' races against the hated imperialist 'white' races. The soldiers relished their triumph. Japanese soldiers had been indoctrinated to consider the white nations as oppressors and themselves as descendants of the sons of heaven."

I have to say Japan was an evil enemy, their reasoning a total lie and they brought dishonour and death not peace and freedom to the whole of Asia.

Praise be to the LORD who has not let us be torn apart.
We had escaped like a bird out of the fowler's snare -
the snare has been broken.....
Our help is in the name of the LORD.
The Maker of Heaven and earth."
From Psalm 124.

Blessings – Padre Rev. Dr. Graham Whelan OAM
